The Merchants Trust PLC

Factsheet

30 June 2017

Aim

The Trust's objective is to provide an above average level of income, income growth and long-term growth of capital through a policy of investing mainly in higher yielding large UK companies.

History

The Merchants Trust PLC was incorporated in February 1889, making it the oldest of the investment trusts in the Allianz Global Investors stable. Initially it invested in the fixed interest securities of railway companies in the USA, Canada and South America, but now concentrates primarily on major UK companies with an above average rate of dividend yield.

Trust Benefits

Merchants has for many years focused on a simple proposition to deliver a high and rising income together with capital growth for its shareholders. Simon Gergel has been managing the trust for ten years, investing in a diversified portfolio of large, well-established and well-known UK companies. Although past performance is no guide to the future, Merchants has paid increasingly higher dividends to its shareholders year on year for the last 35 years.

Share Price is the price of a single ordinary share, as determined by the stock market. The share price above is the mid-market price at market close.

Net Asset Value (NAV) per Share is calculated as available shareholders' funds divided by the number of shares in issue, with shareholders' funds taken to be the net value of all the company's assets after deducting liabilities.

The NAV figure above is based on the fair/market value of the company's long-term debt and preference shares (known as debt at market value). This allows for the valuation of long-term debt and preference shares at fair value or current market price, rather than at final repayment value (known as debt at par).

Premium/Discount. Since investment company shares are traded on a stock market, the share price that you get may be higher or lower than the NAV. The difference is known as a premium or discount.

Dividend Yield is calculated using the latest full year dividend divided by the current share price.

Gearing is a measure of a company's financial leverage and shows the extent to which its operations are funded by lenders versus shareholders.

Fund Manager's Review

The UK general election on June 8th left the Conservative party as the largest party, but without an overall majority. This was a major setback for Prime Minister Theresa May, who called the election to cement her position ahead of Brexit negotiations. She had been targeting an increased majority, in the belief that there was a weak Labour opposition, led by Jeremy Corbyn. The result led to rising political uncertainty and meant that the Conservatives had to reach an agreement with the Democratic Unionist Party, in Northern Ireland, to form a government.

Financial markets largely took the election in their stride, with no clear agreement as to whether this would lead to a "harder" or "softer" Brexit outcome. Later in the month, however, comments from the Bank of England Chief Economist and the President suggested that their respective central banks might be less accommodating of rising inflationary pressures. As a result, bond yields rose, bond prices fell and equity prices also fell back.

Overall the FTSE All Share produced a total return of -2.5% in June. There was particular weakness in sectors exposed to rising bond yields, such as utilities and tobacco, as well as in domestic cyclical sectors like general retail and UK orientated banks. On the other hand, the best performing large sector was life insurance, with the international banks – HSBC and Standard Chartered – also performing well.

The Trust's NAV returned -3.3% in June, compared to the FTSE All-Share Index benchmark return of -2.5%. The portfolio return was in line with the benchmark. Standard Life and Equiniti made the biggest positive contributions, with the portfolio also benefitting from not owning British American Tobacco, which was weak. Conversely, Greene King, Pennon and Sainsbury were the biggest negative performance contributors.

We made a new investment in Bovis Homes, a UK housebuilding business which sold 4,000 homes last year. We have not become positive on the housebuilding sector more generally, this is a specific view on Bovis as an attractively priced recovery situation. The company had attempted to grow too fast, which put huge strains on its supply chain, leading to cost overruns, poor customer service and a significant drop in profitability. Bovis have now materially scaled back their ambitions, brought in new management and are making fundamental changes to their production process, quality assurance, customer service and capital efficiency. The business is fundamentally sound with a large land bank and a strong balance sheet. The shares trade at a significantly lower valuation than their peers, reflecting their current depressed profitability, but offering sizeable upside on a recovery. Two large competitors recently bid for the company, which provides extra reassurance about the quality of their land bank.

Elsewhere, the remaining holding in Aviva was sold. This investment derived from Aviva's takeover of Friends Life. We believe that most of the benefits from that deal have now accrued to Aviva shareholders and are fully reflected in the share price. The proceeds of this sale were largely reinvested within the sector into our preferred stocks; Standard Life and Legal & General.

We also took the difficult decision to sell Mothercare, which has been in the portfolio for some time. The original investment case was that a high growth and high quality international franchise operation was being overshadowed by a poorly performing UK operation. Whilst the management team have done a good job in turning around the UK business, such that it made a profit in the second half of the last financial year, the international business has been more challenging than we expected. There is still considerable potential in the company. However, it will still take some time before the restructuring is complete, with no dividend payment likely in the short term, and there remain execution risks.

Simon Gergel, Portfolio Manager

The Merchants Trust PLC is managed by Simon Gergel who is Chief Investment Officer at AllianzGI and has 27 years investment experience. He is pictured here with Matthew Tillet, UK equity portfolio manager. Simon joined AllianzGI in April 2006 from HSBC Halbis Partners where he managed over £900m in high income funds as well as core institutional and life UK equity portfolios. Prior to joining HSBC, Simon worked for 14 years at Phillips & Drew Fund Management / UBS Asset Management.

The UK economy is facing a number of headwinds, with an extremely low savings ratio and consumers seeing pressure on disposable incomes, whilst corporate spending is at risk from uncertainty caused by the Brexit negotiations. However European and other economies around the world generally look stronger. The UK stock market is very international, with bulk the sales and profits coming from overseas. This is also reflected at the portfolio level, where we have significant investments in internationally exposed natural resources, engineering, pharmaceuticals, media and financial services companies, amongst others. Where we have domestic exposure in the portfolio, valuations are generally low, pricing in considerable risk. We continue to have limited exposure to consumer staple sectors like food producers, tobacco and beverages, as valuations are unattractive.

Risk & Features

Investment trusts are quoted companies listed on the London Stock Exchange. Their share prices are determined by factors including the balance of supply and demand in the market.

Merchants seeks to enhance returns for its shareholders through gearing which can boost the Trust's returns when investments perform well, though losses can be magnified when investments lose value. You should be aware that this Trust may be subject to sudden and large falls in value and you could suffer substantial capital loss.

Derivatives may be used to manage the Trust efficiently.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns. You should not make any assumptions on the future on the basis of performance information. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market fluctuations and you may not get back the amount originally invested. This investment trust charges 65% of its annual management fee to the capital account and 35% to revenue. This could lead to a higher level of income but capital growth will be constrained as a result.
