Investment trusts are quoted companies listed on the London Stock Exchange. Their share price is determined by factors including demand, or lack of, which means that the shares may trade below (at a discount to) or above (at a premium to) the underlying net asset value.

A trust's net asset value (NAV) is calculated as available shareholders' funds divided by the number of shares in issue, with shareholders' funds taken to be the net value of all the company's assets after deducting liabilities. In line with current industry best practice NAVs are shown that take into account the 'fair value' of debt. This means NAVs are calculated after allowing for the valuation of debt at fair value or current market price, rather than at final repayment value. NAVs with debt at market value provide a more realistic impact of the cost of debt, and thus a more realistic discount.

Trust aim & characteristics

The Trust's objective is to increase its total return above the benchmark index of 60% FTSE All-Share and 40% FT/S&P World Index (ex UK sterling adjusted) over the long term, by investing in UK and international securities. The strategy of the Trust is designed to meet the requirements of those seeking a single investment in a diversified and professionally managed portfolio.

^{††}The Trust also seeks to enhance returns for its shareholders through gearing, in the form of bank borrowings. Gearing can boost the Trust's returns when investments perform well, though losses can be magnified when investments do badly. You should be aware that this Trust may be subject to sudden and large falls in value and you could suffer substantial capital loss.

Fund Managers' Review

The second quarter of 2006 was set against a backdrop of increased volatility within global equity markets and latterly a period of profit-taking as investors shifted their focus towards more defensive sectors. Adverse inflation data in the US triggered the initial weakness in May, before a series of global sell-offs became self-sustaining as investors reflected on concerns that inflation was more of a threat than previously thought.

Recovery in Europe remains on track and the European Central Bank, having raised its benchmark interest rate for the first time in five years in December, raised the rate a further 0.25% to 2.5% in March, as an improving economic sentiment survey indicated positive growth momentum.

Given the prevailing market environment we continue to closely monitor the risks inherent within the portfolio, conscious that bottom-up stock selection should remain the key driver to performance. Despite recent market movements, we remain in an environment where equities in general are reasonably valued and where inflationary concerns are unlikely to prompt a disproportionate increase in interest rates. Whilst we expect volatility will remain within markets in the near term, and that we will see some further modest tightening of monetary policy in most regions, we believe that equities will deliver another positive year for equity investors in 2006.

Fund Performance

Please remember that past performance is not a guide to future performance. The value of an investment and the income from it can fall as well as rise as a result of market or currency fluctuations and you may not get back the amount originally invested. This investment trust charges 70% of its annual management fee to the capital account and 30% to revenue. This could lead to a higher level of income but a lower capital return.
